

oCTi

ss26: the rocks

clockwise from top left:
 petra earring
 theia ring
 aquifer pendant necklace
 petra ring
 topio ring

the collection is an exploration of rocks – from pebbles to gemstones.

some pieces use castings of smaller rocks as a way of bringing parts of large landscapes to the wearer's scale. others are interpretations of these vast terrains, shown through pattern, texture, colour and gemstones. each piece then becomes a mini, wearable world.

the earth is made up of all kinds of rocks, many of which are not considered to be of value. casting these into precious metals is a way of celebrating them and bringing them into the same world as gemstones – a pairing of two elements which are versions of themselves, but often considered separate.

the rocks have been carefully selected from the south coast of england, for their shape and ability to transform into rings, chains, pendants and earrings that will sit comfortably on the body.

all pieces are designed and made in london.

photography by sam nicklin.

island bangle

oasis signet

topio ring
landscape necklace

left to right:
aquifer earring
river earring

landscape signet

gaia ring

rock chain bracelet

top to bottom:
rock ring
sapphire rock ring

clockwise from top:
rock ring
oasis signet
mini globe signet
sapphire rock ring
petra ring
landscape signet

left to right:
pluto ring
theia ring

top to bottom:
rock hoop earrings
landscape ring

clockwise from top left:
fallen rock ring
gaia ring
petros ring
topio ring

topio necklace

clockwise from top left:
mini globe signet
mini island pendant
aquifer ring
globe ear cuff

clockwise from top left:
 landscape necklace
 aquifer pendant necklace
 rock island necklace
 rock bead necklace
 mini island pendant necklace
 topio necklace

rock chain bracelet

