Ewenki Jewellery Presents the Everbranch Collection at London Fashion Week (Digital)

Ewenki Jewellery presents the Everbranch Collection as part of London Fashion Week's digital showcase, sharing a body of work shaped by the branching patterns that quietly form our world and inner landscapes.

The name Everbranch draws from the way life continually unfolds. Tree limbs, reindeer antlers, river paths, coral, mountain ridges, and the inner pathways of being all follow a language of branching, growth, and transformation. These natural structures hold a vitality that is never fixed, always reaching, always becoming.

Rooted in the heritage of the Ewenki people, the collection reflects a deep bond with the forest, the reindeer, and the continuity between generations. It carries a sense of resilience and renewal, a belief that life moves forward through cycles of change, season after season, life after life. Memory and future meet quietly within each form.

Crafted in sterling silver with a gentle gradient gold vermeil, the pieces explore subtle transitions between light and depth, warmth and stillness. The flowing surfaces echo organic movement rather than symmetry, allowing each piece to feel evolving rather than resolved. The gradient becomes part of the story, suggesting passage, time, and transformation.

The Everbranch Collection holds a quiet confidence in growth, connection, and continuity. It reflects how life branches outward and inward at once, shaping presence, memory, and belonging.

Ever reaching, ever becoming.

About Ewenki Jewellery

Ewenki is a contemporary jewellery brand inspired by the cultural heritage of the Siberian Ewenki tribe. The work honours a deep relationship with nature, reindeer traditions, and artisanal craftsmanship. Through storytelling-led design, each piece carries cultural memory while expressing a contemporary sensibility rooted in respect, care, and connection.
